McHugh and Sophie Zuehlwiler, the latter a WOMAN OF THE TOWN.

And known as Bell Walker. McHugh was drunk when the marriage took place, but was induced to go through the ceremony by Debeck who told him the marriage was "just in fun." He was two hours to get away but was each time captured and taken back, and the last time, was locked up in the room until eight o'clock in the evening when he intended bride. About 3,000 people were present and every one of them had paid twenty-five cents admission to handsome fund for the society. When the hour for the marriage arrived, McHugh was in a drunken sleep. "Brace up," said he, striking him on the back, and McHugh braced up and was married. Each of the three couples received $10 of the society fund to start them in life, besides a gold ring from the Mayor to each of the blooming brides.

And life went smoothly on. McHugh made the best of his bargain, "braced up" and went to work. He and his new bride went to housekeeping for a year, lived happily. As McHugh has often said, and his incarceration, "those were the happiest days of my life." But McHugh loved his liquor, and his wife's chastity.

Was not above suspicion. Quizzes followed, and as the neighbors say, McHugh finally fell to the peculiar habit of occasionally whipping his wife. That made her mad and she took to drink also, and as McHugh believed, was becoming fond of the society of others. She was a beautiful woman of the pure blonde type, and loved the society of others. On the Monday before the terrible murder occurred, McHugh went to his work as usual, kissing his wife a fond good-bye. Reaching the shop, he was told that his wife and four other men had left. He then went to the river and got a job on the Panther, running between Cincinnati and New Albany. When he went back home to get his clothes, he found the door locked and his clothes hanging on a nail and laying outside with a note pinned to them telling him to leave. He resorted to drink and instead of going to his work, stayed drunk all the week. A few days before the murder the woman related to a neighbor that McHugh had been one intolerant and that she proposed to get a divorce. Probably feeling that the woman was stout and unyielding and embittered with jealousy, he conceived the idea to

MURDER HER.

On Saturday night of July 23, McHugh procured a butcher knife with a blade six inches long and went into Sixth street market to look for a woman. He seemed to know she had gone. He was followed by his old mother, who ran after him and tried to dissuade him from his deed. He found the woman at the corner of Sixth and Plum streets at about 8:30, in a crowd, he caught up the woman and with the word of warning, and with the coolness of a devil incarnate, brushed the people aside and committed the horrible deed. A raised alarm.

THE TRIAL.

In the Police Court McHugh waived examination, and was bound over to the Grand Jury. He was indicted for the murder of his wife, and was committed to the jail. The trial was held on the 28th of July, and was a long and painful process. The man who had been so long in prison for the murder of his wife, was finally hanged at Cincinnati.

THE LIFE OF McHUGH.

Was not a notoriously bad one; indeed there is much of his life to be commended. His father, who was a railroad contractor, died three months before he was born, leaving his mother in the most abject poverty. There were three children, William, Mike and John, and to William in their boyhood fell the duty of aiding the mother about the house, while the others earned a few pennies outside. William eventually arose to the dignity of a bootblack, which avocation he followed until he reached the age of 15. He then learned the trade of a painter, at which he became a good workman, a supporter to his old mother and an honor to himself. He eventually took to drink, fell into bad company, and ere he was 25, had grown into the scheme made to believe it was a good thing, and endorsed the idea. A plan was given by the so-called "good" men of the city, and on Sunday, August 10, 1870, at which three marriages were celebrated. Frank Noel and Mary Purkoff, Mary Purkoff after ward died in a Longworth street tragedy, and Noel is now a detective in St. Louis. Frank Noel and Louise Drier, Louise died in the hospital shortly after. Wm.

THE KEENE FAILURE.

What the Speculator Himself Says About It.

Current Comment on Wall Street and Among the Knowing Ones, Both Friends and Enemies.—Its Effect.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Mr. James R. Keene, one of the most brilliant speculators of the day, has suspended. He made the following statement:

"In the effort to maintain my position on a falling market, I have paid out millions of dollars within a few months to protect my privileges, and finally determined to call a halt for the general protection of all with whom I have business."

It had been rumored on the street all day that Keene was in financial difficulties, but the rumor was received with smiles, for it has been put forth at least fifty times during the past week. Mr. Keene has not been credited. But in the course of the day it transpired that Keene, while not a bankrupt, was in a position to be considered as a man who was temporarily unable to take up a number of "puts" that he had issued, and which were then in the hands of a general intelligence created a sensation on the street, but excited no panic, the general belief being that Keene was a man who was abundantly able to meet all his obligations.

Mr. Keene's office was locked during most of the afternoon and his secretary declined to speak concerning his difficulty.

Mr. Keene was very reticent to speak of his client's affairs, but finally said: "In the last few weeks, Mr. Keene has paid out $400,000 to protect his privileges, and in the past month or two he has paid out $500,000 in the same way."

He has suspended because he does not know where he stands. Many people on the street who can not be considered as personal friends of Mr. Keene, came forward to-day and offered to advance him $400,000 to place him in a position to be released. It is impossible for me to estimate on the amount of his liabilities, as Mr. Keene does not know himself.

It was reported that Mr. Keene had a large number of puts out in Erie, Western Union, Union Pacific and other securities, which he had declined heavily. The consequence was that for several days Mr. Keene has had to deliver to the public a large quantity of stocks which he had been obliged to buy at figures largely above their present market value.

To protect his privileges also, he was obliged to speculate in the market, so as to manipulate prices, and to do this he has been forced to buy and sell in several lots. For several days past he is understood to have been liquidating accounts. It is said that he has paid out upwards of $200,000 to day he paid out $200,000 to day he paid out $200,000.

Some place the amount higher. Francis Bassett, a privilege broker, put out $1,000,000 of stock at 22, and Keene failed to take them, and another broker of Western Union was also declined.

A stout colored man patrolled the sidewalk in front of Keene's home last night. The servant headed all intruders off with the remark, "Mr. Keene is not at home."

There is no word of the night. The night is not its first, tragedy. There is no excitement and indignation over the suspensions of the officers.

THE DAILY BULLETIN
FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 2, 1884

The Republican Convention of Vermont instructed for Edmunds.

About $250,000 of the public debt was paid during the month of April.

The Republican delegation from Iowa is solid for Blaine and likewise that of West Virginia.

The price of window glass has been advanced ten per cent. by the Pittsburgh manufacturers.

CALIFORNIA and Nevada send Blaine delegations to Chicago. Oregon delegates will go unopposed, but are undoubtedly for Blaine.

The Joint Legislative Committee have agreed to report in favor of appropriating $15,000 for the display of Kentucky products at the Southern Exposition.

The Anti-Mahone Republican State Convention of Virginia, sent unopposed delegates to Chicago, but they are understood to be for Blaine and Lincoln.

The Blaine boom for the Presidency has attained formidable proportions at too early a stage of the campaign, and the probabilities are that it will end in a premature collapse.

MAINE Republicans endorse prohibition, approve the administration, present James G. Blaine as their choice for the Presidency, and nominate Gov. Frederick T. Coburn by acclamation.

This prospect is that the high license liquor bill will pass the New York Legislature. The license rate established by the bill are as follows: Cities of 10,000, liquor $500 to $1,000, and beer $250 to $500; places of from 3,000 to 10,000, liquor $200 to $500, beer $75 to $150; places of less than 3,000, liquor $150 to $200, beer $50 to $100.

The convention of colored men at Pittsburgh resolved "that the Republican and Democratic managers have not, as a rule, respected the rights and proper feelings of the colored citizens in the management of their parties, and in the administrations to which they have been selected and elected. This has been true in the face of repeated appeals and protests on the part of the colored people and their friends. We cherish a hope that the above parties will see it in their policy, at least, to change policy in this regard, and that it is both politic and manly for the colored voter to await events and declarations, and not at the present time to commit himself to any political party."

The United States Supreme Court has just rendered an important, not to say curious, decision on the question of life insurance. The policy sued upon contained the usual stipulation that, if answer to the question put to the insured when the policy was issued, was untrue, it should vitiate the contract. It was shown on the trial that the assured had had scrofula which he said he had not, but that he was aware of it, and the answer, although untrue, was given in good faith. The trial court held that the fact of untruth was conclusive against the policy, but the Supreme Court now holds that the mere fact that a statement made in such case is untrue does not prevent recovery on the policy, unless there was willful evasions or fraud.

The Early-Walker Wedding.
Danville, Ill., Daily News.

Yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock a previously announced wedding took place, the marriage of Miss Alice Walker, of this city, to Rev. L. N. Early, of Maysville, Ky., occurred at the residence of J. J. Walker, brother of the bride. Rev. C. H. Little, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Chaplain Wilkin, of the North Street M. E. church, officiating.

Miss Walker was lastly arranged with floral decorations. Mr. Early and his bride were escorted by Prof. J. W. Layne and Miss Madge Kimball.

The wedding guests were among the immediate relatives and friends of the parties. A wedding breakfast was served, after which the bride and groom took the morning train on the Cairo division of the Wabash railway. The groomsmen and the bridesmaids accompanied the couple to the depot, and saw them well started off upon their wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Early will stop at Kansas, Illinois, from there they will go to Indianapolis, thence to Muncie, Ind., and to Richmond where they will go to their future home in Maysville. For the present they will not start to housekeeping.

The presents on the occasion were numerous and elegant.

Miss Walker was one of Danville's most intelligent society ladies, and leaves many friends here who will follow her with the kindest wishes to her new home. Mr. Early during his residence here as pastor of the Christian church, endeavored himself to all with whom he associated, and Danville society loses doubly in the removal of this couple.

The news among their friends in extending its best wishes.

CONGRESSIONAL SUMMARY.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Mr. Fry's bill to remove certain burdens on the American merchant marine and encourage the American foreign carrying trade was laid before the Senate.

Mr. Beck delivered a set speech in favor of free ships and free material, and setting forth the views of the minority of the Committee on Commerce on this subject. At the close of this speech a brief colloquy arose between Mr. Fry and Mr. Beck as to the effect of free ships on American commerce. Mr. Beck maintained with some warmth the position he took in his arguments. Mr. Fry accepted to them with equal warmth, and then made a speech in support of the bill as well founded on patriotic intentions and principles of law. He claimed that a protective tariff kept up seamen's wages as well as wages of other workmen. This point also led to some discussion as to the relative value of wages in this and foreign countries. Mr. Fry held with some vigor that the bill in this respect would enhance the prospects of both American ship owners and seamen in like degree. John H. Ramey up incidentally. Mr. Fry said that industrial contractor was unfortunately born in Ireland.

"That fact is not unfortunate one," interjected Mr. Beck.

"Well," said Mr. Fry, who was by this time thoroughly warmed to his subject, "he came to this country a poor boy. He did not become a hoodlum. He did not start a saloon in New York. He went to work and started a business which has made him one of the most worthy and respectable men of the country."

Mr. Fry yelled to a nation to go into executive, and shortly after this the Senate adjourned.

House.

Discussing the Tariff Bill, Mr. Hewitt (N. Y.) argued that over-production was an unnatural condition and that it resulted from impediments placed in the way of distribution. Great Britain and the United States being blessed by Providence with the greatest natural advantages, labor would, he said, always command the highest price. He said trade unions were a shield and protection of labor, and under free trade, all the protection needed, but under a protective tariff they were paid a large price.

Mr. Kelley (Pa.) agreed with Mr. Hewitt that the natural distribution of goods was to production, both in free trade England and protected America, but the distribution needed, he said, was a distribution of the profits between capital and labor.

Mr. Hewitt's hour having expired he was granted further time and in explaining his requirement of more time, said the speech he intended to make had been so much better made by the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Hard) that he had been compelled to shift his ground. Mr. Hewitt continued his argument to show that a protective tariff was directly hostile to the interests of labor.

Mr. Varner (Ohio) denied that the Morrison Bill was in harmony with the Ohio platform. That platform demanded a reform in the tariff and a reduction of the revenues. There was no evidence that a horizontal reduction would reduce the revenues. It must be a great reduction on some, and a little on other articles. He argued that whatever benefited one class of a system of industries, benefited the whole system.

Mr. Culbertson (Texas) argued that a protective tariff giving bounties and subsidies, created monopolies, and that legislation to sustain any special class was purely and simply an open violation of law, and without warrant by the constitution. He made a direct system of bounties to the protected industries, each would get only its share, but by the indirect system that one got the greatest share that drove the least.

Mr. Miller (Mich.) made a short impromptu speech in reply to Mr. Culbertson, maintaining the leading propositions in his remarks.

Mr. Cutcheon (Mich.) opposed the Morrison Bill as wrong in principle, faulty in construction, injurious in effect, and disastrous in results.

Mr. Dorsheimer (N. Y.) was recognized, but yielded to a motion that the committee rise.

Mr. Rogers (Ark.) from the Committee on Coinage, Metals and Currency, reported a bill to provide a cheaper rate for telegraphing. Faced on the calendar.

Mr. Lowry (Ind.) from the Committee on Elections, made a report in the case of Farrell vs. Paul, Seventh Virginia District, with a resolution giving the seat to Farrell.

Mr. Randall (Pa.) from the Committee on Appropriations reported a resolution authorizing the clerk to expend $11,500 in the purchase of folding material. Passed. It was explained that this material was needed in sending out tariff speeches.

At five o'clock the House took a recess until eight o'clock. The evening session was short.

Daring Dash For Liberty.
PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—While the prisoners at the House of Correction were being conducted to the quarry, one of the gang made a dash for liberty under the leadership of John Wilson, who was shot by the guards. The guards of the quarry, who were on hand, saw the man steadily in hand, leaving those of the broken gang to handle the little rebellion. When the men broke away, the guards commanded a halt. Many of the men stopped and slunk back, but a half dozen others, badly yelled "Come on!" Crack went a rifle, and in an instant the leader was on the ground and his followers came to a halt. Another command to retreat and they suddenly returned to their places and the little rebellion was at an end. The injured man is not dangerously hurt.

It is denied that O'Kelly, the correspondent, has been arrested.

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 2, 1884.

ROSEN & MCCARTHY
Publishers and Proprietors
707 N. W. 10th St. Address All Communications

PLEASE bear in mind,
This month of May,
The "bonnet show"
At "Sticksaway"
For you will see,
Beyond a doubt,
The sweetest girls
Old Iowa turns out.

Augusta is utilizing her Joe-boxes by converting them into mortar boxes.

J. M. S. LANE was attacked by foot-pads at Ashland and robbed of $1,800.

Dr. Gould will preach in the Methodist Church, South, Sunday morning and night.

USCLE TOM DICKSON, the Third street grocer, has lately added to the attractions of his establishment a handsome soda fountain.

The handsome new uniforms ordered by Hancock's Reed and Brass Band will be furnished by Messrs. Heichinger Bros. & Co.

The plastering of the new Orr building, at Augusta, will be done by Mr. John N. Hill, of this city. He is one of our best mechanics and will do the work well.

The jury in the case of Dr. W. G. Keith, of Dayton, Ky., against James A. Keith's executor, yesterday afternoon, decided the case in favor of the plaintiff, and rendered a verdict for $1,250.

The marriages in Brown County, Ohio, last week were as follows:

Thomas Young and Amanda Zellars.
Charles Cohn and Elizabeth Sorce.
James E. Miller and Ole Thompson.
Arlie L. Fisher and Tilla Schuber.
John Tucker and Hattie P. Bitt.
George S. Colwell and E. Cook.

Mr. A. J. McDougle received the unpleasant intelligence, yesterday, that his house at Remington, Ind., was destroyed by fire on Monday. It was valued at $2,500 and was not insured. An entire business block was destroyed at the same time.

Masonic Notice.
There will be a called meeting of Mason Lodge, No. 342, F. and A. M., to-night at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of conferring the Fellow Craft Degree on two candidates. Resident and visiting brethren especially invited to attend.

E. L. WORTHINGTON, W. M.
JAMES H. SALLER, Secretary.

The preliminary trial of Joseph Weaver, in the Mayor's court yesterday, resulted in his acquittal of the charge of murder, on the ground that he acted in the affair in self-defense. This action of the court is right as there is no doubt that Weaver shot only when he believed his life in danger, and that it was necessary for his protection. The result of the trial meets with the approval of the community.

MARSHALL BOSTON, colored, was sentenced this morning by Judge Cole, to ten years confinement in the penitentiary at Frankfort. Boston, it may be remembered, was convicted, at the present term of court, of the crime of rape upon the person of Mrs. Lucy Connors, colored. His case has been appealed to the Court of Appeals and the execution of the sentence will be stayed for sixty days to await the action of that court.

Ministers' Association.
This society was organized last fall and is known as the "Mayville Ministers' Association." Its object is to consult upon the religious interest of the city. Any protestant minister in the city may become a member who desires to do so. The officers are elected annually. The society shall meet the first Monday in each month. The place for meeting is the pastor's office, at the South Methodist Church. J. A. HENDERSON, Pres't.
S. B. ALDERSON, Sec'y.

PERSONALS.
Miss Emma Means' many friends will regret to hear that she has been very sick.
Mrs. Esira Paul is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Nacini Wenzel, at Flemingsburg.

Mr. S. S. Riley has moved into the residence lately occupied by Mr. A. A. Wadsworth.

Bishop A. M. Tobbe, of Covington, is very low and his death may be looked for at any moment.

Miss Mattie, daughter of Dr. Henderson, will be at home for a day or two from Millersburg College.

Judge Richard Reid, of the Superior Court, candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, arrived in the city on the morning train and is stopping at the Central Hotel. He will remain here but a short time and would be glad to have his friends call and see him at the hotel.

Council Proceedings.

The board met at the usual hour on Thursday evening, with Major T. J. Chenoweth in the chair and all members present except Messrs. Plister and Heichinger.

The monthly reports of the city officers were presented as follows:
